

Discussion

Generally, employment information cannot be disclosed to third parties without the express written consent of the individual involved. Employment information is categorized by law as sensitive standard of privacy protection as

However, public interest allows disclosure of information related to the government position and functions of current and former employees of the University.

In particular, the [Redacted] may disclose the following information regarding a current or former employee of the University:

- (1) Information of the individual relating to the government position and government functions;
- (2) The fact that the individual is or was an officer or employee of the government;
- (3) The title, office address, and office telephone number of the individual;
- (4) The classification, salary range, and responsibilities of the position held by the